

Awareness

Change begins with awareness. Let us help educate your community on the impact of our industrial society and the need to make changes now.

We offer a speaker series and a documentary film series on the following topics:

Peak Oil

The end of cheap energy, how to evolve to low energy living

Energy Efficiency

Design a better standard of living...high quality, low impact

Permaculture

Design principles enabling people to create a more sustainable life

Food & Nutrition

Understanding the national food crisis & its health impacts

Local Economy

Simple solutions to unplug from the corporate structure and build a true local economy

Vision

How do we get to a sustainable future from here?

The LivabilityProject can help with these simple steps:

1. Creating a vision
2. Developing a livability roadmap
3. Organizing existing efforts & groups
4. Fostering local leadership
5. Improving collaboration

A Livability Map provides a comprehensive vision with specific action plans that can be implemented right away.

This is a grassroots, community effort.
For the people, by the people.

The Livability Center

What is it?

It is a fun, magnetic place that showcases how people can lead more sustainable lifestyles. A Livability Center is a place that brings people & groups together by providing the tools and services for sustainable living.

What do you do at the center?

Take workshops on how to live more lightly on the planet, learn how to become a Tomorrow Maker™, find all sustainability-oriented local organizations & businesses, watch compelling movies, eat delicious organic food, socialize, listen to local music, make conscious purchases at the EcoDepot™ take programs back to your neighborhood, collectively make a difference in the world!

Why is this needed?

All signs point to the need for us to live more sustainably. The Center brings exposure to existing businesses, programs & products and helps identify and implement models that have been successful in other communities. By bringing together all sustainable efforts in one "hub", the Center builds momentum for the local green economy and speeds adoption of healthier, more livable lifestyles.

The LivabilityProject can help!

Evolving from the industrial oil age requires communities to build their local green economy and become more self-reliant.

Our solutions are simple and scalable.

We can help build awareness through an expert speaker or documentary film series, help develop a visionary Livability Map or help implement a program such as a biodiesel co-op or local Livability Center.

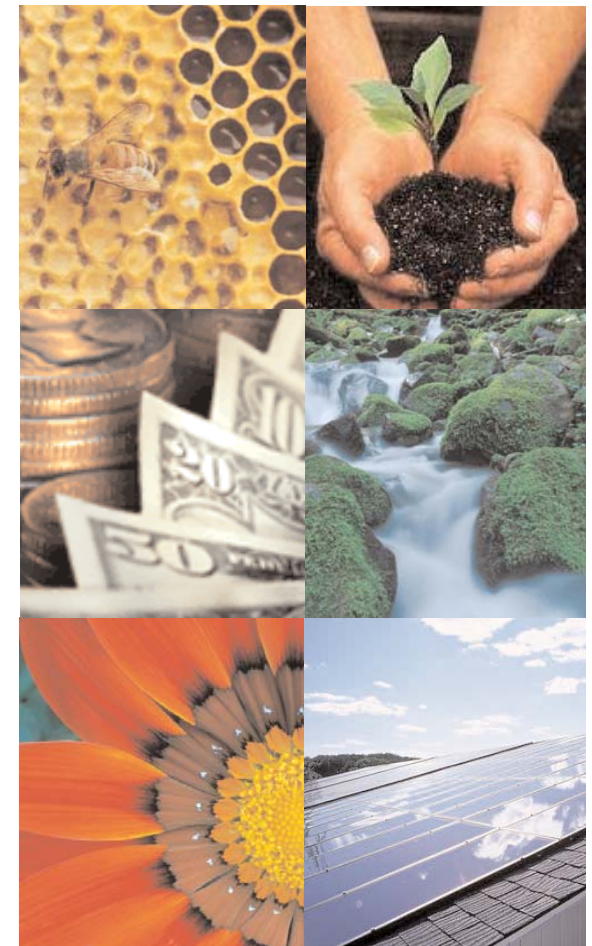

No matter where your community is, we can help you on this path.

The tipping point is here.
